

It is an ancient practice to state instructions for distributing one's property after death. In Genesis 48, Jacob verbally bequeaths his property to Joseph, Joseph's siblings, and Joseph's 2 sons. Wills existed in ancient Greece and Rome, with restrictions.

read more