

I was kneeling on the ground holding the back end of a pronghorn during a transplant project on Parker Mountain. The animal would relax, as if storing its ...

read more